The Return on Investment of Working with Topaz International

We are often asked “What is the return on investment if I were to contract with you for your services?” We have always passionately believed in what we do, but how do you explain ROI for a service like ours? We are not like a piece of capital equipment or a machine that has an output where the expense of the machine can be offset by the product it produces over time. How do you measure our value?

The easiest way we can show real value is by finding lower airfares. And we often find lower airfares that far exceed the cost of the audit. Therefore the return on investment in those cases is very clear. But just like in life, these do not always happen. Sometimes we have really good TMCs that are 100% accurate.

But is that really a bad thing? That peace of mind must have some value to you and your company, and is really why you want to work with us in the first place. If your TMC comes out of an audit sparkling clean then “good for you!” You have independently validated the performance of your TMC.

We know not everything in business services has a clear method of determining ROI, but their value is clear. The value of having liability insurance for business? The value of a computer for employee’s usage and productivity?

We believe that using our services to constantly be vigilant on the performance of your TMC will be money well spent by your company and it is a lot less that what you may be paying in higher airfares. Since we opened our doors in 1978 we have estimated that the companies in the Fortune 500 have overpaid more than $3.0 billion by not using our services. Do not let that happen to you, contact us today.
